Apparatus, Method and Program Product for Controlling Printing

Abstract of the Disclosure

A print controller, method and program product in which print stream data is received, parsed into local and global portions, packaged for further raster image processing, and then processed in parallel by a plurality of raster image processors.

Figures